SENATOR ROBINSON: Between 135 and 140 feet.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Okay. Well, what I'm getting at is, you know, a house of worship can.... I don't know what would happen if...if...what would...if someone comes along and rents like the former dance hall that Senator Robinson is talking about, and they are within 150 feet of a convenience store that is selling alcohol. What would happen then? I don't know. Would they be denied the opportunity to establish a house of worship within 150 feet of the place that is selling alcohol? I don't know. You know, maybe Senator Schellpeper could answer that question. Will Senator Schellpeper yield?

SPEAKER WITHEM: Senator Schellpeper, will you respond?

SENATOR JANSSEN: What would happen, Senator Schellpeper, if this convenience store has liquor, they're selling, have a liquor license, and a...a house of worship is established after...

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: After that's a liquor store?

SENATOR JANSSEN: ...after that's a liquor store, yeah. Then what would happen then?

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: They could continue to sell liquor because they moved...

SENATOR JANSSEN: Even if they were...

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: Because they moved closer, not the other way around.

SENATOR JANSSEN: So then there are cases throughout the state where there are licensed establishments that sell alcohol that are closer than 150 feet then. I mean it's possible.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: It's possible. I don't know where they're at, but there might be. I don't know where they'd be.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Now would the city council have granted them
